In late 2006, the Hip Hop duo U-N-I and producer Ro Blvd began working on a project entitled A Love Supreme. The resulting project, though circulated outside of 'normal' industry channels and never on CD, has catapulted U-N-I into the position of being one of the country's fastest rising musical acts and leaders of the LA new school of Hip Hop. Now U-N-I (comprised of Y-O and Thurzday) release a deluxe edition of their critically acclaimed instant classic entitled A Love Supreme 2.0. The reworking of the entire project features five brand new tracks including the "Land Of The Kings" remix with Bun B. To sweeten the package, A Love Supreme 2.0 comes with a full length DVD (details below). U-N-I has created such a buzz that they have been signed to Los Angeles mega agency ICM who are booking the group into a 30 city US tour in the spring of 2010 with major festival appearances coming for the summer season.

The DVD (Region Free; Run Time: 89 Minutes) entitled A Love Supreme: U-N-I & Ro Blvd. - The Documentary tells the story of how these three young men created a project that reached hundreds of thousands of people without a major label record deal. The DVD includes six music videos, in addition to live performances at Bumbershoot and The Key Club.
